TRAVEL INFORMATION

Berlin is a world-class city with a rich recent history and an exciting future. Many will remember the symbolic falling of the wall that divided culture, ideology and everyday being, but something extraordinary has been built in its place: Berlin is Germany's party capital, with bars, restaurants and clubs to match every taste, but also parks and green spaces that seem at odds with a city of its size.

The atmosphere is overridingly relaxed, perhaps at odds with its 20th century history, and in many ways is all things to all people: history buffs can visit Checkpoint Charlie, the remains of the wall and the Prussian Palace. This is a city shaped by Albert Einstein, Karl Marx, Adolf Hitler and David Bowie, and many more eclectic names, and its museums are extraordinary.

Berlin's food reflects its cosmopolitan setting, with concoctions such as Chai Wallah's chicken tikka naanwich, Laksa House Berlin's homemade sambal, and currywurst (available almost anywhere), among the highlights.

The Olympiastadion is at the centre of Berlin's sporting heritage, and it hosted the 1936 Summer Olympics and the 2006 FIFA World Cup Final. Its domestic teams, Hertha and FC Union, have experienced moderate success in recent years, but Berlin is still an active city, with basketball, ice hockey, handball and volleyball vying for attention.

MONEY

Credit Cards: Credit and debit cards are accepted at most hotels but should you wish to use a card in a restaurant or bar it is best to check with the establishment beforehand to be sure they accept them. If credit cards are accepted, it will usually be Visa and MasterCard only.

When walking around Berlin it is best to carry cash with you as, much like the rest of the country, the city runs primarily on cash.

When you first arrive to the city please be aware that credit cards are not accepted in the automated ticket machines when buying transportation tickets.

Currency Exchange: Exchange rates generally tend to be the same if exchanging at a bank or directly from an ATM machine.

Tipping: German workers earn better base wages and therefore extravagant tipping is not expected or required. If you had good service, a tip of 10% is a common amount for Germans to pay.

Tax information: Visitors from outside the EU can reclaim a portion of that on goods worth over €5. Berlin shops displaying the 'TAX-FREE' sign issue a receipt that, when stamped by customs, can be redeemed at a tax-free reimbursement office.

Banks: Generally open Monday to Friday, from 8:30 am - 12:30 pm; then 1:30 pm - 3:30 pm or 4:00 pm. Thursday afternoons 1:30 pm - 5:00 pm or 6:00 pm.

Afternoon closing time depends on the individual bank or branch. If you are staying uptown, banks there might be closed in the afternoon, so going there in the morning will be the safest option.

The following banks have longer opening times and are also open on weekends:

Central Station (Hauptbahnhof): Open daily 6am-11pm

Airport: Open daily 7am-8:30pm

HEALTH

Make sure you have adequate travel health insurance and accessible funds to cover the cost of any medical treatment abroad and repatriation.

European Health Insurance Cards (EHIC) can be used to cover the costs of treatment until you return to the UK. Although please note that the card is not an alternative to travel insurance. It will not cover any private medical healthcare or costs of lost or stolen property. Therefore, it is important to have both an EHIC and valid private travel insurance.

If you need emergency medical assistance during your trip, dial 112 and ask for an ambulance. If you are referred to a medical facility for treatment you should contact your insurance/medical assistance company immediately.

GETTING AROUND BERLIN

By tram and bus

Buses or Trams beginning with "M" are metro buses or trams. These run on average every 10 minutes. Other buses and trams run on average every 20-30 minutes. Buses beginning in "X" are express buses.

Taxi

There are taxi ranks at all main railway stations and airports. Unlike in the UK you don't necessarily have to take the taxi at the head of the queue, so you can simply get in the first one you come across.

Tip: At the Berlin airports you should only take a taxi from one of the taxi ranks indicated, to avoid unlicensed taxi drivers. Genuine taxis are recognisable by their Berlin number plates and concession numbers on the rear window. However, please be aware that concession numbers should not be higher than 8,000 - if it is then it is an unlicensed taxi.

Tariffs

Taxi rates are regulated and therefore offer a standard price. A journey to the city from the airport will cost roughly €20-30.

Waiting in traffic should not have any effect on the taxi fare. The basis fare is €3.90, and the kilometre fare is €2 per kilometre for the first 7km, and €1.50 for each km after that.

FOOD & DRINK

Mitte is the most central borough of Berlin and is therefore a popular area for restaurants and bars. However, throughout most of central Berlin, it is difficult to walk far without coming across a nice bar, restaurant, café or club.

Nightlife in the Western Berlin is divided into a handful of main areas. As a general rule, prices in the west tend to be slightly higher.

Savignyplatz in Charlottenburg, Kreuzberg and Winterfeldplatz are other areas that are good for nightlife. Friedrichshain is also a good destination for filled with trendy bars and clubs.
